

Re: Hello Josh

Josh and Renee Warneke to youshow details

Bro. Havens. Thank you for all the prayers for our ministry. I will try to get some pictures for all of you. We are doing well. Our youngest was in the hospital for a couple of days with an infection in his lungs but is fine now. We are real real busy building our new auditorium. It's exciting to see what God is doing in the lives of our church.

Please tell your pastor and the church hello for us

Hello Josh,

This is Joe Havens, I met you and your wife at Liberty Baptist in Spokane, WA. when you presented your ministry and mission to the church.

We hope things are now going well for you, and that you have bounced back fully from the storm. I can assure you the church is praying that God will provide His care and support for you and the work you are doing. Given what God promises His people, we are confident He will do exactly that. When, and or if, you have special needs as time passes, please let me know and we be praying for answers and may able to help in practical ways also.

Josh do have the capability to produce short videos, 30 to 45 seconds long, concerning your ministry? We would like to share short videos from missionaries with the congregation at the beginning of our Sunday services. We are engaged in increasing the visibility of missionaries we support. Sharing stories concerning the fruit from your work is a tremendous blessing to our congregation, as well as a motivator for people to see the LORD at work. If possible just e-mail anything to me at wbuffalot@aol.com

Josh, I pray for you and your family on a regular basis. We serve an awesome God who loves His family and is faithful to His promises. What is for sure exciting is that He actually uses little ol us to help Him accomplish His purposes! May He grant you the desire's of your heart, but more over success in the ministry and mission you are engaged in.

Love ya Bro!

Joe Havens
